* the third release on tilt-recordings sees the vinyl debut of two upcoming producers
* from Germany's Drum N Bass capital who have been in the scene for quite some time:
* Mannheim's very own Bad Boy Kaiza and the incredible bongomax from the Trio-Music crew.
* Bad Boy Kaiza, co-labelowner of tilt-recordings, has been already playing his role in
* the dnb scene for years with parties, the radio show "DMF", his ragga sideproject
* "burnin trees" and (last but not least) deejaying. better known for his highly
* consistent mixsets, Kaiza teamed up here for these two technoid joints with amex, who * has been forming his definition of Techno Drum N Bass since 2000 and recently published
* a lot of his older tunes on the informal free 320' mp3 label T-FREE. and as you can
* hear from the tunes on this release, these guys sold their souls to the techno devil...
*
* amex/Kaiza - "Shrinz"
* on a solid fundament of techfunk elements with a growling midrange, a very present
* offbeat bassdrum in combination with the use of innovative stabs, beat samples and many
* subtle percussion elements in a complex arrangement lead to an outstanding groove and
* kick this tune beyond everyday-dnb. with it's dynamic hihats, precise hitting beat and
* percussion elements and vocals working as lead sounds, this is some serious beattechno, * funky and driving as hell. it even does not forget to give tribute to detroit, and the
* mini- breaks are just the icing on the cake. this tune definitely does the bounce?
* amex/Kaiza - "Next Level Nature"
* while constantly generating a deep and catching atmo, the beat appears step by step in
* a dj-friendly intro. after the bridge the tune comes in as a king size neuro roller, * with contra-dynamic midranges and stabs and synths and fx and all, but also with an * unusual element: jungle-ish bird voices spiced with destroyed vocals, which give the
* tune a schizophrenic character in combination with the sharp amex trademark stabs.
* many variations and mini-breaks keep this steam engine exciting till the end while
* rolling its path through the techno jungle and make it more than a solid tool.
* next releases with more technical inspired tunes coming soon... watch out!
